

ICO consultation on the draft updated data sharing code of practice

Data sharing brings important benefits to organisations and individuals, making our lives easier and helping to deliver efficient services.

It is important, however, that organisations which share personal data have high data protection standards, sharing data in ways that are fair, transparent and accountable. We also want organisations to be confident when dealing with data sharing matters, so individuals can be confident their data has been shared securely and responsibly.

As required by the Data Protection Act 2018, we are working on updating our data sharing code of practice, which was published in 2011. We are now seeking your views on the draft updated code.

The draft updated code explains and advises on changes to data protection legislation where these changes are relevant to data sharing. It addresses many aspects of the new legislation including transparency, lawful bases for processing, the new accountability principle and the requirement to record processing activities.

The draft updated code continues to provide practical guidance in relation to data sharing and promotes good practice in the sharing of personal data. It also seeks to allay common concerns around data sharing.

As well as legislative changes, the code deals with technical and other developments that have had an impact on data sharing since the publication of the last code in 2011.

Before drafting the code, the Information Commissioner launched a call for views in August 2018. You can view a summary of the responses and some of the individual responses here.

If you wish to make any comments not covered by the questions in the survey, or you have any general queries about the consultation, please email us at datasharingcode@ico.org.uk.

Please send us your responses by Monday 9 September 2019.

Privacy Statement

For this consultation, we will publish all responses except for those where the respondent indicates that they are an individual acting in a private capacity (e.g. a member of the public). All responses from organisations and individuals responding in a professional capacity will be published. We will remove email addresses and telephone numbers from these responses; but apart from this, we will publish them in full.

For more information about what we do with personal data please see our privacy notice.

Questions

Note: when commenting, please bear in mind that, on the whole, the code does not duplicate the content of existing guidance on particular data protection issues, but instead encourages the reader to refer to the most up to date guidance on the ICO website.

| Q5 | Does the draft code contain the right level of detail? |
| | ⊠ Yes |

| Q7 | Has the draft code sufficiently addressed new areas or developments in data protection that are having an impact on your organisation's data sharing practices? |
| | ⊠ Yes |
| | □ No |

| Q8 | If no, please specify what areas are not being addressed, or not being addressed in enough detail |
|------|---|
| Q9 | Does the draft code provide enough clarity on good practice in data sharing? |
| | □ Yes |
| | ⊠ No |
| Q10 | If no, please indicate the section(s) of the draft code which could be improved, and what can be done to make the section(s) clearer. |
| | consider the following matters require clarification to make the ition on data sharing clearer: |
| i) | We note the code states that the essence of a data sharing agreement should be made available to the data subject. What |
| ii) | level of detail will be required to fulfil this obligation? We note that fairness of sharing should also be considered in addition to identifying the applicable lawful processing relied upon. We consider that often the issue of fairness is considered when deciding the extent of the personal data being shared, after a lawful basis for sharing has been identified. Please can the ICO issue examples of situations where data sharing is lawful but is considered unfair. |
| iii) | We note the code states a Data Protection Impact Assessment is best practice even it is not mandatory. We consider that assessments are made when deciding whether data can be shared, but a DPIA is onerous to complete. A short form DPIA would assist with recording the factors considered before deciding whether or not data can be shared. |
| iv) | The code states in addition to identifying a lawful basis for data sharing, public sector bodies should identify whether they have a |

| v) | legal power to share, for example under their constitution. Should this power derive from a specific power to share or can local authorities rely upon their primary powers to carry out the function that the sharing relates to? For example, if a local authority has a legal obligation to provide an organisation with council tax data upon request for a specific purpose, would the power to share derive from powers relating to council functions or should there be specific power to share? We note the code provides that it may be possible to rely on an implied power to shared information derived from express statutory powers. It would be useful to have clarification of the extent of which the express power can be relied upon. |
|-----|---|
| Q11 | Does the draft code strike the right balance between recognising the benefits of sharing data and the need to protect it? ☑ Yes □ No |
| Q12 | If no, in what way does the draft code fail to strike this balance? |

Q13 Does the draft code cover case studies or data sharing scenarios relevant to your organisation?

| | □ Yes |
|--------|--|
| | ⊠ No |
| _ | Please provide any further comments or suggestions you may have about the draft code. |
| i) | It would be helpful to have specific guidance for local authorities which includes data sharing scenarios, as local authorities are likely to be sharing on a lawful basis other than consent. |
| Q15 | To what extent do you agree that the draft code is clear and easy to understand? |
| | ☐ Strongly agree |
| | ⊠ Agree |
| | ☐ Neither agree nor disagree |
| | □ Disagree |
| | ☐ Strongly disagree |
| Q16 | Are you answering as: |
| | $\ \square$ An individual acting in a private capacity (e.g. someone providing their views as a member of the public of the public) |
