Q1 Does the draft guidance cover the relevant issues about the right of access?

Yes

No

Q2 Does the draft guidance contain the right level of detail?

Yes

No

Unsure / don't know

If no or unsure/don't know, in what areas should there be more detail within the draft guidance?

Q3 Does the draft guidance contain enough examples?

Yes

No

Unsure / don't know

If no or unsure/don't know, please provide any examples that think should be included in the draft guidance.

It doesnt support the employer in dealing with requests, where they appear to be excessive by volume of data.

Q4 We have found that data protection professionals often struggle with applying and defining 'manifestly unfounded or excessive' subject access requests. We would like to include a wide range of examples from a variety of sectors to help you. Please provide some examples of manifestly unfounded and excessive requests below (if applicable).

A search that results in over 50,000 emails being returned as it has the individual's name in, is excessive, but isn't covered under current legislation as that.

Q5 On a scale of 1-5 how useful is the draft guidance?

1 - Not at all useful	2 - Slightly useful	3 - Moderately useful	4 - Very useful	5 - Extremely useful

Q6 Why have you given this score?

It doesn't change the law in a way I believe would be better. There is no protection for employers.

Q7 To what extent do you agree that the draft guidance is clear and easy to understand?
